

6516206151.txt

Technology continues to evolve and expand the possibilities of nearly every aspect of the world we live in. Satellite radio is just another one of those positive progressions and should be allowed to seek its own path of proliferation rather than be squelched by an older and less innovative technology like broadcast radio. The public makes its choice and its voice is being heard, so let the process occur unchecked by the lobbyists from the NAB.